

Our Procurement Policy

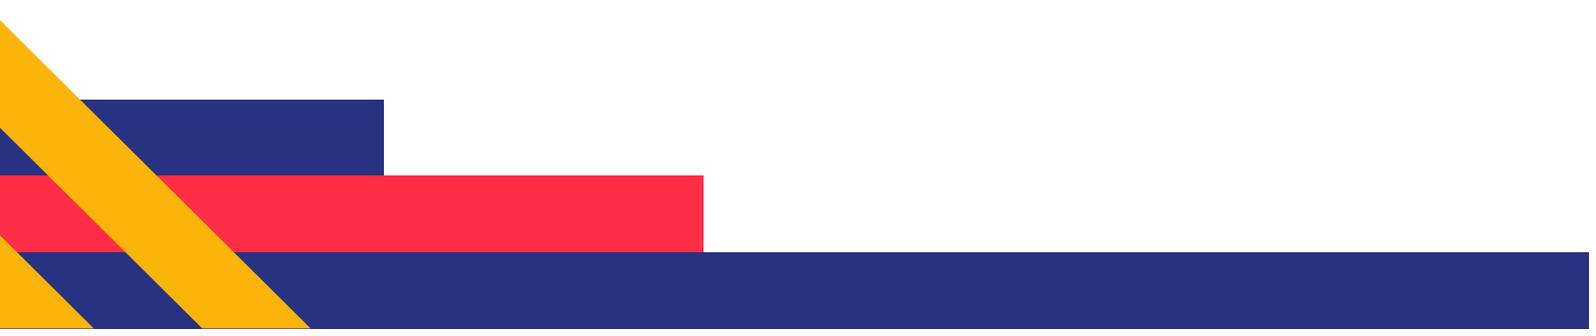

We want to work with businesses along the East West Rail corridor and nationally who have the same passion for customer focus as we do: organisations who are innovative, bold, and can be trusted to deliver. We also want to ensure local businesses and suppliers can really benefit from the design and construction of East West Rail.

In return we promise to stick to our commercial principles, so you know what to expect when you're working with East West Rail.

How can you find out about new contract opportunities?

- Our chosen e-tendering system is Delta. You can register to be kept up to date with new contract opportunities as they come up via www.delta-esourcing.com/register

All money spent by East West Railway Company on goods, services and works procurements is covered by these principles. Find out more about East West Rail at www.eastwestrail.co.uk

Procurement principles:

Acting with fairness and respect: you can expect us to treat you, your team, your time and your resources with respect and fairness.

Rewarding innovation: show us the best and most innovative ideas you've got, and we'll show you a receptive, collaborative environment to build on them: let's see what we can create together.

Acting with transparency: we will work hard to build trust on both sides of our relationship so you know not just what we're doing, but why, and feel comfortable challenging us when you need to.

Rewarding activity which protects the environment: respect for the environment is a fundamental part of how we operate and we'll go out of our way to recognise suppliers who champion this approach while demonstrating value for money respect and fairness.

Demanding inclusivity: our workplace must be a place of mutual trust and respect: our team, our customers and our stakeholders must all feel welcome, without exception.
